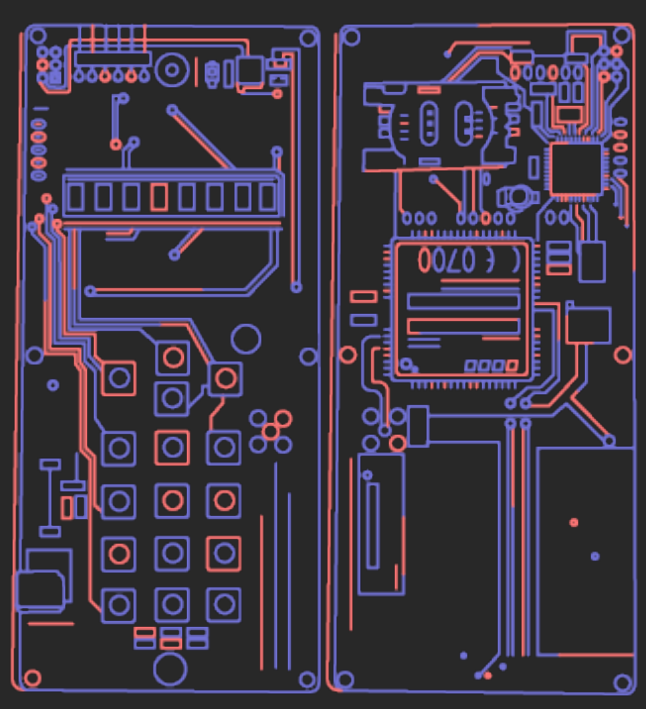
Zombie Data: Stories told by Discarded Devices

with Melody Haase



Our cellphones can tell a lot about us–and they never forget. The data we generate, from texts to pictures to web searches, create a detailed picture of who we are, long after we upgrade devices. Our e-waste is a treasure trove of intimate stories accessible to those that try to access them.

Join us for a real-world romp through stories found within discarded cell phones that were purchased online.
